Donald B. Fahrer

SUNDAY MAY 8, 2022 FOURTH SUNDAY OF EASTER

First Reading: Acts 13: 14, 43-52

Second Reading: Revelations 7: 9, 14b - 17

Gospel: John 10: 27-30

FOCUS: Our God knows and loves each of us.

What a blessing it is to have a God who knows each one of us. Each of us is created and gifted with our own unique purpose. As Jesus says in today's Gospel: My sheep hear my voice; I know them, and they follow me. Let us celebrate Jesus' presence in our lives and follow after him.

LITURGY OF THE WORD

In the first reading, the preaching of Paul and Barnabas is rejected by the Jews and welcomed by the Gentiles. In the second reading, John sees a diverse remnant of people who survived the great tribulation. They give worship to the Lamb of God, who shepherds them. In the Gospel, Jesus says that his sheep know his voice and follow him. He leads them to eternal life, for he and the Father are one.

READINGS FOR NEXT WEEK, MAY 15, 2022*FIFTH SUNDAY OF EASTER

First Reading: Acts 14: 21-27

Second Reading: Revelations 21: 1-5a

Gospel: John 13: 31-33a, 34-35

LIVESTREAMING AT ST. MARY'S

For those who, for medical/mobility reasons, are unable to attend Mass at St. Mary's, the parish just installed a live streaming system to broadcast all Masses at the Church (not Msgr. Ryan Hall). These include the 9 AM daily Masses and the 7:30, 9, and 11 AM Sunday Masses. Everyone who is able to attend should know that the Sunday obligation has been reinstated. The You Tube link is:

Pastor's Page

Dear Friends:

It's wonderful to be back to work at St. Mary's after my "time away." I've certainly missed you all, and am profoundly grateful for the love and generosity you've shown me over the course of my convalescence. It is no exaggeration to say that I owe my life to the efforts of doctors and medical professionals who cared for me. While you don't need to hear the details, I would like to share a moment with you that made an impression on me. Lying in bed after the procedure, it was not possible to eat as usual. A nurse had to feed me my applesauce, spoonful by spoonful: something I hadn't experienced since Mom performed the same task when I was two. This tiny action symbolized all the care—medical and personal—I received from kind people who did for someone what he could never do for himself.

This might sound strange, but I think it might be good for people—particularly those who exercise authority—to be sick or hospitalized at some point in life. Those of us who are in charge can suffer from the delusion that we have everything under control. We whistle past the graveyard and think that while terrible things can occur, they will never happen to us. Undergoing some disability, even for a short time, has the salutary effect of reminding us how very close we are, at every moment, to losing everything. So what would our lives be like if we were to take seriously the precariousness and fragility of our existence? There was an 18th-century Protestant theologian (with an unpronounceable name) who made this experience the basis of his religious thought. He calls it the feeling of "absolute dependence." For him, this is not some general, vague perception of the material universe, but a primal, human awareness of God himself. Absolute dependence does not extinguish free will, but reveals the difference between limited, frail human beings and the infinite, almighty God.

This week the Church celebrates "Good Shepherd" Sunday, one of the oldest and most enduring images of Christ. Our artwork this week is a depiction of the Good Shepherd from the catacombs in Rome. Interestingly, the Shepherd was a far more popular symbol for Christians in the first three centuries of the Church than either the Cross or the image of Christ the King. Some believe that the crucifixion was still a fresh memory for early Christians, and excessively disturbing, whereas a Shepherd emphasizes God's love. The picture of a king evoked thoughts of the ongoing persecution of Christians by the civil authorities of the time, whereas the gentle, beardless youth who cares for the flock is reassuring. Notice also that in this particular image, Jesus feeds and protects not only the sheep, but the goats as well! (cf. Matt. 25:32). It suggests that even sinners remain in the embrace of a merciful God, who seeks out the lost.

Apart from the lessons one takes from these images, the fact of these paintings counters the erroneous idea that early Christians were overly spiritualized and iconoclastic. On the contrary, James Hadley argues that concrete realities—the flesh-and-blood Jesus, the beauty of his person, and holy places like the catacombs—all convey the grace of God. Likewise, God shows his care for the most helpless among us through our Mothers. Happy Mothers' Day!

Faithfully,
Fr. Valentine

Mother's Day Novena Masses

Mother's Day is this Sunday May 8th. If you wish to have someone remembered in the Mother's Day Novena Masses, please place the envelope you received in your monthly packet with the names of your loved ones to be remembered and place it in the collection basket or deliver it to the Rectory.

The Novena will be celebrated at all the Masses on Mother's Day with the exception of the 11:00 a.m. Mass which is for the People of the Parish. The Novena will also be celebrated at the 9:00 a.m. Masses on May 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 and at the 5:00 p.m. Mass on May 14th.

The envelopes will be placed by the Statue of Mary for the remainder of the month of May.

St. Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle.

Be our protector against the wickedness and snares of the devil.

May God rebuke him,

we humbly pray;

And do Thou,

O Prince of the Heavenly Host,

by the power of God,

cast into hell Satan,

and all the evil spirits

who prowl about the world

seeking the ruin of souls.
