READINGS FOR SUNDAY MAY 15, 2022 FIFTH SUNDAY OF EASTER

First Reading: Acts 14: 21-27

Second Reading: Revelations 21: 1-5a Gospel: John 13: 31-33a, 34-35

FOCUS: Jesus commands us to love one another.

Jesus wants us to love as he loves. Our faithfulness and attentiveness to right and wrong, to holiness, and to the practice of faith is important. Yet Jesus furthers our understanding of following him by making clear the greatest commandment of every disciple: to love as he loves.

LITURGY OF THE WORD

In the first reading, Paul and Barnabas continue their work and encourage the others to persevere in their faith. In the second reading, John describes his vision of a new heaven and a new earth where God dwells with is people and wipes the tears from their eyes: He proclaims, Behold, I make all things new. In the Gospel, Jesus gives his disciples a new commandment to love one another as he loves them.

READINGS FOR NEXT WEEK, MAY 22, 2022 SIXTH SUNDAY OF EASTER

First Reading: Acts 15: 1-2, 22-29

Second Reading: Revelations 21: 10-14, 22-23

Gospel: John 14: 23-29

FOSTERING STEWARDSHIP AS A WAY OF LIFE

PARISH SACRIFICIAL GIVING

Parish Sacrificial Giving - Living Stewardship ~ Pillar of Formation: Pillar of Service Jesus tells His disciples to "love one another". This may sometimes be easier said than done, but if we make a commitment to do something nice to someone each day, to do a good deed for them, then we will be taking steps closer to God.

LIVESTREAMING AT ST. MARY'S

For those who, for medical/mobility reasons, are unable to attend Mass at St. Mary's, the parish just installed a live streaming system to broadcast all Masses at the Church (not Msgr. Ryan Hall). These include the 9 AM daily Masses and the 7:30, 9, and 11 AM Sunday Masses. Everyone who is able to attend should know that the Sunday obligation has been reinstated. The You Tube link is:

Got that?

Today, this could pass for a relatively simple communiqué between colleagues. My parents, both teachers, wouldn't have a clue as to its meaning. Add the obligatory emojis and, well...you may not even want to know what some people are saying. The free exchange of ideas is difficult enough when people from different cultures, religions, and ways of life espouse conflicting opinions: i.e. the "what" of the debate. It is infinitely harder when we cannot even agree on the language—the "how"—we use to communicate with each other. Take morality, for example: a fraught subject if there ever was one. What I find revealing is not so much what people have to say about this or that hot topic, but how they phrase the discussion. If a person begins, "I feel that..." the discussion is already over. Who am I to take issue with someone's feelings? Here's another: "I have a right to..." Two things here. First, "rights" language is a relatively recent idea with a negative connotation, i.e. freedom from constraint: nothing positive or noble. And have you noticed how the rights people are normally concerned with are their own, and rarely those of others? The discussion is anything but altruistic. Still others begin, "What would you do if...?" The problem here is that the individual immediately jumps, without principle or discernment, into action: hardly a recipe for a positive outcome. Ancient thinkers, by contrast, were concerned more with the kind of person one aspires to be, and the qualities a good person demonstrates. Such an individual is not influenced by emotion or personal advantage or artificial rules, but by the desire for excellence, which redounds to the advantage of all.

This week the Church honors Pope St. John I, a sixth-century pope and martyr about whose short reign we know little. Yet the scant evidence we do have illustrates his magnanimity toward an unexpected beneficiary. At the time, orthodox Roman Catholicism was being undermined by Arianism, a heresy that denied the true divinity of Christ. The Catholic Emperor, Justin, exacted harsh penalties against his Arian subjects, while their champion, King Theodoric, resisted these measures. He appealed to Pope John, who besought the Emperor to show mercy upon the "heretics," not because he agreed with their position but out of charity. The same King Theodoric, far from showing gratitude to the pope, harbored only jealousy toward him and, after having John arrested, allowed him to die in prison in 526 AD.

One wishes there existed a more beautiful portrait of Pope John I than the one we have, but perhaps the example of its subject, a pastor of souls and martyr, is all that is necessary. In our tumultuous world, we might pray for his twofold virtues: bold witness to the truth, and compassion for others. Whatever our differences, love is the language we can all understand.

Faithfully, Fr. Valentine

In the Immaculate Heart of Mary, I Trust

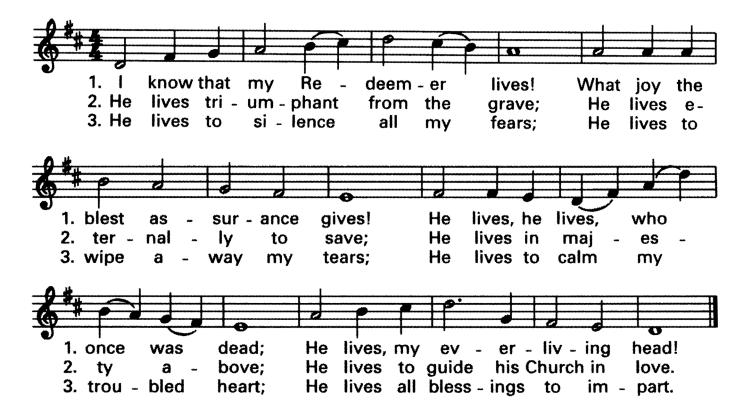

Look to the Star, Call upon Mary!
In danger, in difficulty or doubt,
think of Mary, call upon Mary,
Keep her name on your lips, Never let it pass out of your heart. Following in her footsteps,
you will not go astray:
praying to her, you will not fall into despair:
Thinking of her you will not err.
While she keeps hold of your hand,
you will not fall...
you will not grow weary...
you will have no fear...
Enjoying her protection,
you will reach the goal.
