READINGS FOR SUNDAY OCTOBER 23, 2002 30th Sunday in Ordinary Time

First Reading: Sirach 35:12-14, 16-18
Second Reading: Timothy 4:6-8, 16-18
Gospel: Luke 18:9-14

FOCUS: In prayer, we turn to God with all our needs.

The Lord hears the cry of the poor, the oppressed, and the tax collector who share the virtue of humility. He knows no favorites but hears those who admit their need for his mercy and redemption. When we pray, it is not to exalt ourselves but to humble ourselves and place ourselves in his hands.

LITURGY OF THE WORD

Sirach says that God hears the cry of the lowly and oppressed. Paul praises the Lord for giving him strength as his life is threatened. In the Gospel, Jesus tells the parable of the Pharisee and tax collector praying at the temple. The humble tax collector – not the self-righteous Pharisee – leaves justified.

The Pastor's Page

Dear Friends:

If the “new poll” by the National Confectioners Association (NCA) is to be believed, 93% of Americans are expected to celebrate Halloween in 2022: complete with chocolate bars, candy corn, and jelly beans. (And in a related poll, 100% of beach goers are disappointed when lightning strikes them.) Count me among the “humbugs” who keep a low profile on this occasion ever since they took St. Valentine off the liturgical calendar. The real surprise, though, is not who partakes of the celebrations, but people’s feelings about Halloween; for many, parties and trick-or-treating represent a welcome return to normalcy after a soul-crushing period of isolation. On the other hand, many believe the festivities open the door to a dark world of the occult. While I pray that the latter will not be the case this or any year, we Catholics do well to take the opportunity to ask what the day is about, and how best to observe it.

In the early days of Christianity, the heroes and heroines of the Church were the martyrs, who gave their lives in witness to Christ. They were individually honored by the Church on anniversary of their deaths. In the 7th century, Pope Boniface IV dedicated the Pantheon (our cover art)—the temple of the gods—to the Blessed Mother and all the martyrs. Eventually, the multiplication of these commemorations resulted in the decision by Pope Gregory III (8th century) to establish a holy day that celebrated all holy men and women on November 1. (More on All Saints Day in next week’s bulletin.) But the night before the holy day—the vigil, if you will—is what we associate with Halloween. The significance of this day highlights the practice of Catholic Christianity, to select—and retain—features of pre-Christian cultures that are consistent with the faith. According to the Catholic Encyclopedia, Pope Gregory the Great advised a missionary to England that, instead of destroying the religious practices of indigenous peoples, he should “re-purpose” them to a Christian end, namely, the worship of the Christian God. One of these practices is the Celtic harvest festival of Samhain (October 31 to November 1), during which time it was believed the material and spiritual worlds came together.

What, then, are we to make of various Halloween practices like jack-o-lanterns and trick-or-treating? As people with the advantages of the natural sciences (most of which were developed in Christian cultures), we are tempted to dismiss these rituals as superstitious or evil. This would be a mistake. If we are intellectually humble, we learn not to judge earlier generations by our own modern standards. These routines were simply an acknowledgement of a spiritual realm that exists along with the visible order. Spiritual entities can be good or evil, and so the shining of light and the distribution of sweets to neutralize the power of evil spirits are relatively harmless in their intention. The real problem, however, comes in when Christians develop a fascination or obsession with these dark forces instead of focusing on the true object of their devotion: the power of God. As Charles Taylor writes:

God’s power conquers the pagan enchanted world...but what [some] fear most is (the bad kind of) magic power...The flip comes when you take all that fear and transpose it into a fear of God, sole rightful object of fear, confident that it can arm you against all magic.

We modern Catholics do well to celebrate the sovereign power of God over all things, visible and invisible. So if you want, enjoy Halloween, and save me a peanut butter cup, will you?

Faithfully,
Fr. Valentine

News

Hello St Mary's Families!

Did you know that your kids are awesome? I am hearing wonderful conversations as I walk through our hall. They are busy and having a great time. Fourth Grade shared qualities about the Beatitudes and Eighth Grade spent time learning about the Holy Land! They are starting to 'fall' back into the classes and seem really happy!

Welcome to all of our new families! We're so happy you're here!

Please don't forget to hand in your Policies and Procedures form this week!

In Christ, Miss Werfelman

Noticias

¡Hola familias de St Mary!

¿Sabía usted que sus hijos son impresionantes? Estoy escuchando maravillosas conversaciones mientras camino por nuestro pasillo. Están ocupados y lo están pasando de maravilla. El 4 Grado compartió cualidades acerca de las Bienaventuranzas y el 8 Grado ¡Pasó tiempo aprendiendo acerca de la Tierra Santa! ¡Están empezando a volver a entrar en las clases y parecen realmente felices!

Bienvenidos a todas nuestras nuevas familias!

¡Estamos tan contentos de que esté aquí!

¡Por favor no se olvide de entregar su formulario de Políticas y Procedimientos esta semana!

En Cristo, Miss Werfelman

Call for Catechists!

We are still in need of 2 catechists for this year.

St. Francis Hospital Guild

Dear Parishioners,

Many thanks for supporting the Guild of St. Francis Hospital by purchasing raffles the weekend of October 1 & 2, especially on a rainy day. The day's efforts totaled $1,000.00. I especially am grateful to Fr. Tim for allowing the sale at each of the Masses, and for encouraging each of you to participate in this fundraising event. Thanks also to Rita Botensten for standing with me on a chilly Sunday to solicitate sales. Know that your contribution helps to further the good of the Hospital.

Sincerest appreciation,

Rose Emanuele

Prayer to St. Michael the Archangel

St. Michael the Archangel, defend us in battle.
Be our protector against the wickedness and snares of the devil.
May God rebuke him,
we humbly pray;
And do Thou,
O Prince of the Heavenly Host,
by the power of God,
cast into hell Satan,
and all the evil spirits
who prowl about the world seeking the ruin of souls.

Amen
